PROUDLY INTRODUCES

ARBORVINE RESTAURANT AND

IN THE HEART OF BLUE HILL, MAINE
OFFERED AT $2,300,000

Arborvine opened its doors in 2000 with a simple purpose . . . to provide diners with the freshest, locally sourced foods available. Today, that tradition continues as the network of local farms, fisherman and foragers who supply Arborvine is as strong as ever. Whatever the season, it is this connection to the local harvest and the people behind it that has enabled Arborvine to fulfill that purpose now and into the future.

Farm-to-table is in full effect in the heart of Blue Hill. In the kitchen you'll see the pans of roast duck and a massive hen of the woods mushroom ready to be prepped for the night's risotto. The setting is a sunny, window-lined kitchen with easy access to the herb garden and the solar-powered craft brewery, DeepWater Brewing Company, out back.

The menu is created with Horsepower Farm carrots and apples, Carding Brook Farm mesclun (grown in Brooklin), and mussels, scallops, and clams from Blue Hill Bay. Every dish is gorgeously plated and served up at fireside tables in the front rooms of the white colonial that has an arbor vine growing in a green arch over the front door.

And now, this staple in the community and beyond can be yours.

Deep Water Brewing Co. is Arborvine's very own five barrel microbrewery, with state of the art equipment and a gorgeous tasting room in a beautiful 200 year old former horse barn that was fully renovated in 2012. The barn was torn down to its frame and rebuilt with a new foundation, and everything else from there on up. This beautiful example of post and beam architecture is a historic building that has been repurposed to provide a new function in the modern world, and it does so while incorporating modern utility systems while keeping its historic integrity. At Deep Water they personally handcraft each and every beer from the best ingredients available. Historically they have served their beers exclusively at the Arborvine and the Deep Water Brew Pub. Being small has allowed them to experiment and brew a number of styles to rotate throughout the year. A buyer could continue with this tradition, or take the brewing to the next level. The pub has its own kitchen, separate from Arborvine.
